That Is Different.

Mrs. Honeymoon—My dear, I wish you would let me have a little pin money.
Mr. Honeymoon—All right, sweet-heart. How much do you need?
Mrs. Honeymoon—Three hundred dollars.
Mr. Honeymoon—Great Scott! Three hundred dollars for pin money?
Mrs. Honeymoon—Yes, dear. It's for a diamond pin.

A Rough Estimate.

Chimney—Is yer goll fond o' ice cream, Billy?
Billy—Well, I guess! Say, dat goll eats enough ice cream to keep the entire output of the beef trust in cold storage!

Not Unnatural.

"Mr. Jinks, I was pained to see you walk out of church in the middle of my sermon today."
"Er—er—why, you see, I must have walked in my sleep!"

Exact Information.

Mistress—And you say your brother choked to death? What on?
Maid—On a chair, ma'am. He was eating dinner.

Well Done.

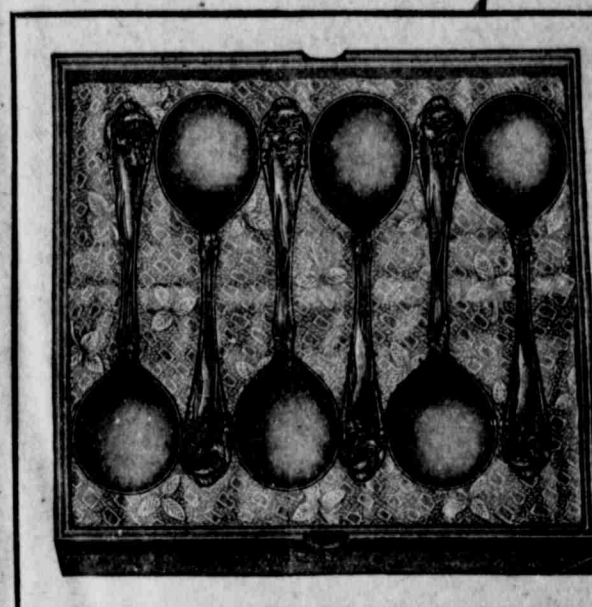

"Did Europe do you good, old man?"
"I should say it did 'do' me! I've come back broke!"

It's no use fussing about keeping the faith if you cannot keep your friends.

'FORTY-FIVE BIG BUCKS'

He Had When He Went in—Not When He Came Out.

"When they bring a guy in here, salted with forty-five big bucks and bring him out the next morning to be stuck for having a little Christmas fun, and then for him to find that he has been 'touched' for the wad, it is a hard pill to swallow," was the declaration of Tim Lynch, a steamboat man off the Reeper. He charged that someone had stolen this amount from him last night while he reposed in the city jail. Lynch was one of the many who engaged in a rough and tumble fight near First street and Broadway. He was searched but no money was found. He had concealed it nicely about his person, he said, but so securely that some fellow prisoner could not find it. This morning several prisoners were taken into Judge Cross' office and searched but the missing $45 was not found.

Baby Brothers Have Duet.
Hickman, Ky., Dec. 26.—While Mrs. W. H. Beard was away from home at work, her two little boys, Clarence, aged eight, and Earl, age five, got to fussing and threatened to shoot each other. The smaller one, Earl, started up into the loft to get a gun. The other one got a gun down stairs, and seeing his brother through the loft, fired through a crack at him, hitting his left arm all to pieces. The little fellow was at once brought to Dr. H. E. Prather's office where his arm was taken off even with the shoulder. It was feared he could not stand the operation, but there are hopes of his recovery now. Mrs. Beard's husband died about a month ago, and their circumstances are very bad.
